< THE RUG COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY

The SoHo showroom of this popular retailer, which purveys handmade rugs by such designers as Paul Smith and Diane von Furstenberg, has received a graphic makeover. Now expanded to 4,500 square feet, the stylish space is decorated with photomurals of English country house interiors. A bespoke department allows you to create a unique rug or customize an existing pattern.

LUCCA ANTIQUES, A NEW YORK CITY

The beloved Los Angeles dealer has opened a spacious outpost in Manhattan's Tribeca neighborhood. The shop's range of European antiques—such as 19th-century Italian church chandeliers—mingles with rustic furnishings made from architectural oddment and aged woods. Accent pieces include copper lanterns, zinc mirrors, and faux-bois garden chairs.

LOTUS BLEU, SAN FRANCISCO >

Interior designer Jeannie Fraise's cheery new shop focuses on bright, boldly printed textiles. Among the highlights are Madeline Weinrib's inventive cotton rugs, John Robshaw's colorful bedding, Katherine Rally's intricate batik pillows and table linens, and Muskhane's Nepalese wool-felt mats, cushions, and baskets. Vintage Danish-modern chairs and vibrant patterned wallpaper round out the selection.
